McKinley Prices.

I infer the above caption the Philadelphia Press gets the laugh on the New York Times and Evening Post at the same time exposing the utter idiocy of the free trade argument about prices. The Press says: "We congratulate our esteemed free trade contemporaries, the New York Times, on its prompt and early publication of the true effect of the McKinley tariff on the prices of manufacturers. It reduces them." The first result of a higher duty is to advance prices. The next result is to increase production. The inevitable result of increased production is to reduce prices.

We know this. The American people know it. If the New York Times will go on publishing the facts, as it does in the interview on以上, paper we reprint, we have our hope even of the education of our free trade contemporaries. Colonel G. W. Thompson, the interviewee, makes the paper. The McKinley tariff raised the duty on iron and paper and Colonel Thompson raised the price. The New York Evening Post had a long editorial, which we reprint, about the horrors, the wickedness, the unscrupulous oppression, of requiring the grandiose purchaser of gold silverware to wrap his purchase in tissue paper, on which the duty had been raised from 25 per cent. to 30 cents per pound and 15 per cent. ad valorem. The New York Times, too, had an editorial on the subject, only it was not quite so interpreted with horror as the Evening Post's. The woes of the poor and down-trodden who lay solid silverware are ever present in the mind of the editor of the Evening Post. He believes the earth was made for their toil, and that tariff laws should be.

But will Colonel Thompson's prices stay up? Oh, no! "Tell me tell you," says the disappointed Colonel, "the price of the tissue paper will be lower than ever inside of six months. Why? Why because everybody is going into the business. I know three mills that are already getting in order to get to work upon this sort of paper, and inside of six months there will be a dozen or fifteen more in it. People with small means will go into it, men who will have to turn their outputs off quickly. It is inevitable that there should be a constant drift, drop, drop, in price."

We can congratulate the Times on its enterprise in finding out all this. It is true it has an editorial in the same issue which says the McKinley tariff raises prices, but this is a detail. We forgive it. As the late Mr. Butler so eloquently said, or might have said, "In the hands of a reporter, altogether accurate, facts are mightier than all the theories of the editorial writer."

Let the good work go on, dear fellow-worker of the Times. If you will only continue printing a newspaper and giving the facts gathered by your accurate and impartial reporters, you cannot help aiding the great and good cause of protection, the great and good cause of protection.

New Industries in the West.

Melville D. Landau (El Purdon), having just returned from Dakota, Nebraska and Minnesota, was asked if there were any new industries being established in the West on account of the new tariff?

"Yes," he said, "there are three great Western industries being established which will keep $30,000,000 in this country every year."

What are they?

First, the Grand Island, Nebraska, beet sugar industry is a wonderful success. They are now turning out more than 300 barrels of pure white beet sugar a day. The plant cost $30,000, and was purchased in Germany. The farmers all made money last summer, raising beets in the Platte Valley, and next year millions of acres in that valley and in the Jim River Valley, Dak., will go into the beet sugar industry. They are putting up other beet sugar factories in Lincoln and Norfolk, Nebraska, Sioux City, Iowa, and in Aberdeen, Dak., between the Platte and Jim River valleys will supply all the white sugar the country will want in less than five years. Germany is making her own sugar, and the percentage of sugar her beets is 6 per cent less than in the Nebraska beets."

"And the next industry?"

It is the new topnotes given by the tariff to flax, oilseeds and manufacturing. We have always thrown away our flax fiber. Now Minnesota capital and Glasgow, "kill" are building a large flax factory in Minneapolis - two small flax factories for making towels, sheets and table cloths are being operated in Northern Iowa. Thousands of farmers are putting wheat land into flax, and flax making is becoming an American industry. We have been spending $20,000,000 annually in Ireland, France and Germany for linen, and throwing our flax away after making dressed oil out of the seed. Now the tarif on oil and linen makes the industry profitable here."

What about wool in the Northwest?"

The whole country from Bismarck to Denver is going into it. Millions of acres of wheat land will go into sheep this year. On the train coming down from Fargo way, 100 houses which never did anything but work in the wheat fields. They were going to Oboe to be changed for sheep - Southdowns, good for feed and wool."

"What will be the result of all this?"

"Why, we will not have this surplus of 70,000,000 bushels of wheat to sell in England at a dollar a bushel. Within two years we will eat up all our surplus wheat, and then it will go to another bushel in Dakota, a price that it is worth for feed, and the American farmer will be a top again. (Good times are coming for the farmer. I can see it.) Land is stiffening up all over the West. Farms are going out of the market. The tariff of twenty cents a bushel will keep back ten million bushels of Minnesota wheat made on cheap dollar-an-acre land, and make it go out by

"Not there is more public land?"

"No, not when land our own land. It is about all taken. What is left is beyond the rate bill. The farms have been for fifteen years the under dog in the fight. Now he is coming to the front. He begins to feel rich already. The tide has turned. Farming is paying better and better every day."

It has been 10,000,000 surplus bushels of wheat, which had to go to Europe the cheap little wheat in England, which has kept the farmer poor."

"Well this," explained Mr. Landau, "thousands of new industries are springing up to employ more labor - plain fact."

tories at Chateauguay and in other towns in Pennsylvania, plus grain stores in Buffalo and all over the natural gas regions, silk factories at Homestead and Somerton, and more potteries in Trenton and East Liverpool. These laborers will be well paid, and they will get more and more than this man. I say, give this abused and misunderstood Tariff a trial."

With his singular, rapid fire.

And his eyes had a strange look.

Which was the result of Grace.

He was such a good play.

But he would not be contented.

If the whole world were there.

For his watchword was Salvation.

And he seemed to find a spark.

Of such every atom.

That was the secret to keep it dark.

The old day, the old hand blues.

We thought he sought to break.

Laid him low to the poor side.

He had lived in for over sake.

Came a night when we stood watching.

Two or three about him here.

Two or three about him there.

Just to breathe the cool night air.

He was the dyer Captain.

To the window, moving aoe.

For we knew his heart would fail at the evening light below.

For us down on the beach sang.

The song of the sea, the song of the boat.

Just a name of drunken clamor.

That forever and ever.

And the yellow lamps were flaring.

High, through that strange market place.

But the lights were hidden.

On the Captain's wanted face.

As we looked out the window.

He looked another City.

Where the stream of the sea down.

And he murmured, looking downward:

"In fine form, clean & white.

Nothing to do but to sit back, relax,

And the Lord rest at the right."

— Andrew Lang in Longman's Magazine.

Queen People of China.

This is a little island about 10 miles down the Potowmack, called Chincoteague.

This island is inhabited by a strange race of people and a race of the greatest ponies in the world.

The people of the island fish and grow oysters and are hardy, primitive people who fear God and attend strictly to their business.

Hundreds of these wonderful ponies roam the island, living to the last in the wild on sea weed, and in the Spring are woven frames to the water and are lost — Washington Letter.

BITS OF SYMPTOMS.

People who go to apothecaries to have their diseases prescribed for occasionally got very strong diaphore.

In one case a man, wearing a long countenance,

and to have entered an apothecary's shop and remarked.

"I have something queasy in my stomach, and I want you to give me

something for it."

"What are your symptoms?" the apothecary asked.

"Every little while something seems to rise up, and then settles back again,

and by and by it rises up again."

The apothecary put his chin in the palm of his hand and meditated a while.

"Look here!" he said gravely. "You haven't gone and swallowed an elevator, have you?" — Exchange.
